NRA Multiple Discipline Training Custom Programs

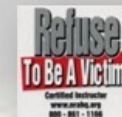

We believe that the area of personal protection is much more complex than only an "armed citizen", a vault for your social security number or a home alarm system. It involves more than a lethal or less-lethal response capability, but also how to protect your home, identity, family and your well being at a number of threat levels. How to be aware and take action in advance to avoid risk, rather than to wait and react to it! This area of personal protection is more complex than is normally perceived by most individuals. It is about much more than the mere use of a defensive device!

This system is used by both law enforcement and the military to build skills and teach safety. Advanced scenario training used in our Real StreetsSM course. Force on force training is provided for skills extension in our Real StreetsSM Part Duex advanced program.

Comprehensive and Professional Personal Protection Training Services

Tall Guns, LLC offers personal protection training, including Colorado, Utah and Wyoming CCW license courses. We provide our services to individuals, businesses, and military personnel.

Tall Guns is based in Loveland, Colorado forty-five (45) miles north of the Denver Metropolitan area.

The principals of the company have over four decades of combined experience in various business and military ventures. They have filled numerous roles during their careers. They have served in special operations in the United States military and as consultants to U.S and international security agencies on various homeland security matters. They have provided consultancy services to numerous Fortune 500 firms for supply chain, facility and traveler protection and "hardening". They have developed training programs for security and protection firms.

Leveraging a set of diverse life experiences led us to start Tall Guns in early 2006. Drawing upon this extensive experience, our commitment to on-going development and protection techniques allows Tall Guns to bring to our clients a high level of service and an on-going relationship focused on their well being.

Our principals are certified NRA instructors and Utah Certified Carry Concealed Weapon (CCW) instructors (issued by the Utah DPS Bureau of Criminal Identification). This allows us to offer an extended CCW training to provide maximum state coverage by license holder(s).

We also draw upon a consortium of advisors of experienced military and law enforcement individuals to develop and advise on our non-NRA programs. They bring to our program numerous philosophies, training, and real-world experience in the area of personal protection. Using this diverse group of professionals allows us to deliver to our clients a well rounded and highly focused program for personal protection and assuring we are "preparing others in an uncertain world".

If you want world class training delivered in a professional and experience rich fashion, provided by a firm that can provide you ongoing training that can grow from the base of your first class experience, then look no further! We are your solution at a home town price delivered with professionalism.
